ERRORS !!!!!!!!!

- An off-centre dam- occlude the patient's nasal airway.
- If the punched arch form is too large the dam wrinkles around the teeth and may interfere with access.
- Punched arch form is too small, the holes are stretched open around the teeth, permitting leakage.

Such leaking gaps can be sealed by using cavirt, periodontal packs, liquid rubber dam or oraseal.

Nowadays, the rubber dam adhesive can be used which can adhere well to both tooth as well as rubber dam.

For sealing the larger gaps, the rubber dam adhesives in combination with orabase can be tried.

If leakage persists in spite of these efforts, the rubber dam sheet should be replaced with new one.

INVERTING THE DAM

- Invert the dam into gingival sulcus to complete seal around the tooth and prevent leakage.
- Inversion of dam inter proximally is achieved with the help of dental floss.
- Facio lingual inversion of dam is achieved with the help of explorer

MISCELLANEOUS

- Inappropriate retainer
- Retainer pinched tissues
