ETIOLOGY OF ORTHODONTIC PROBLEMS

- CHAPTER 5 PAGE NUMBER :107
- CONTEMPORARY ORTHODONTICS – WILLIAM R PROFFIT

• Fig. 5.1 From a broad perspective, only about one-third of the U.S. population has normal occlusion, whereas two-thirds have some degree of malocclusion. In the malocclusion group, only a small minority (not more than 5%) have problems attributable to a specific known cause; the remainder are the result of a complex and poorly understood combination of inherited and environmental influences.
